I believe that one of the greatest functions art can serve for a community or an individual's life is the expression of Truth. For me the search for Truth has always been best revealed through an expressive style. I avoid "the thing" or the object, and attempt to reveal the life experience by showing the energy around or even inside "the thing." No matter the medium or subject (figurative or landscape), my goal is always the same, to find the sensual experience or an essence of life rather than the direct facts of a tactile world.
